F. PEER REVIEW PRESENTATION

Mr. Dennis presented this item.

Mr. Dennis gave the history of peer review. He informed the board that in 1988 the AICPA Bylaws required peer review for membership balancing the educational aspect of peer review. Many States decided at that time to make this mandatory for their profession. Mr. Dennis informed the board of the rehabilitative aspect of Peer Review, with Education being the primary focus.

There was a general discussion of peer review issues, and processes. Mr. Dennis informed the board that the process begins with a firm enrolling with an Administrative Entity (AE), the firm selects a peer review firm, the AE approves, and the peer reviewer conducts a review of the firm. The peer review firm will send a draft report and work papers to the AE. Draft reports are not to be distributed, without the Report Acceptance Board (RAB) acceptance. The AE will conduct a technical review, and the AE through the RAB will review and accept report, at that time the firm will complete any corrective action required at that time. There are two types of peer reviews, the system review and the engagement review. The system review is more comprehensive than the engagement review. The AE Oversight Committee reviews the effectiveness of the peer reviewer, the technical aspect, qualifications and continuing education. This oversight of the AE is performed every other year. Mr. Brown of the FICPA informed the board that there is an appeal process. There is the issue of transparency and many states have postings on their websites of reviews; Mr. Dennis stated he wouldn't be for posting the reviews; or making the reviews public.

There was a general discussion of forming a Peer Review Oversight Committee (PROC). The PROC Committee would see that the process is fair; twenty nine out of fifty four states have created a PROC Committee. Mr. Dennis informed the board that other states have between three and five members consisting of CPA non-board members, who may be active or retired. The issue of terms will need to be determined. There would be a need for an agreement between the Board and the AE. The members of the board would be compensated for any travel, should they be compensated for their time; it would need to be determined whether these were all subjects that will need to be considered in this process.

Mr. Dennis went over the key issues with the board, the first being educational and rehabilitative vs. remedial. The consensus of the board is that this should be educational, not rehabilitative. The second issue is to define who can be an Administrative Entity, should there be an application process for approval, should the AICPA's established guidelines be used, and should a PROC be formed. The consensus of the board was not to restrict to one Administrative Entity, with the exception of one board member who thought it should be restricted to one AE. The third issue is enrollment, and the process for getting firms signed up for Peer Review. The board discussed various ways of getting this accomplished; an example was placing this in the Statute as a requirement. The board discussed if there should be a penalty if the firm doesn't enroll and what the penalty should be. Ms. Clark informed the board that they must have a disciplinary guideline for penalties to be created. Disciplinary rules will need to be drafted to deal with issues that may arise from this.

Board members discussed the confidentiality regarding Peer Reviews, what would be public record, whether there could there be a statutory public records exemption, perhaps patterning it after the medical profession. Board members were in favor of a PROC; however, they would want to see language for public record exemptions, as they felt the reports should be confidential.
